

1,000 / 40 for 40: Day TEN

If you look closely at the mountain in the picture above you can see the Brasov sign, sort of like the Hollywood sign! And we're so grateful that God sent rain to cool things off here!

We enjoyed our first day of language school!

Maybe this picture of my kids should be embarrassing but I just love it. This is

Prayer Requests

Here are our quick, specific prayer requests for August 7, 2017.

- Pray for us to continue learning the language well.
- Our pallet of personal belongings should get here on Wednesday, but we're learning to not totally trust the "schedule" around here. Please pray that we would get our stuff on Wednesday but that we would also have open palms about the whole thing. Ultimately, stuff is just stuff.
- As a reminder, so far we've written about Nicu and Nicoleta; Nicolae and Constanta; Emil and Nicolas; Loandara and Anastasia; Maria and Madalina; Jaime, Cristiana, and Maria; and Dorita. Keep praying for them, too.

Who We Met

Today we met our language tutors, Ionut (Yo-nootz) and Corina. We have two teachers since we're doing a flexible hybrid schedule. On Mondays and Wednesdays Derek and I will go to tutoring together, and the other days one will go in the morning and the other in the afternoon. So Ionut will teach in the mornings and Corina in the afternoons. Today, then, Corina taught us.

What we learned today was mostly review for us since we've been doing some language study before we got here. So we weren't really exhausted by the language. But Corina has an overflowing energy that is both engaging and exhausting. We enjoyed getting to know her.

Please pray for Corina and Ionut. They both have children and are teachers. Pray that we would learn well from them but also be able to develop friendship with them. Part of the tutoring will include field-experiences like going to get coffee, going to the market, etc. so we can practice what we're learning. We'll get plenty of time to learn from them and get to know them. It's easy to view tutoring scenarios as purely studious, but our sovereign God has put us with these teachers for a reason. Perhaps that is a Gospel-centered reason, so pray that we might be able to learn church-related words that might open up
